

These Eyes

As the mask goes on, these eyes start seeing differently. Things never seen before come into place. The mask takes over.

These eyes take you where you may not want to go, but yet you must see what's there. It may be frightening, it may be beautiful. But you must see it.

You are drawn away from one's self and go deeper to what you are now. The time has come for you to be the other self. You now think different, feel different and most of all, see different. So take yourself away with this feeling and see new beginnings, because it will all come to an end.

As one can see with eyes, some only see with their mind. As you see, I am blind. So take your journey and live it well, for one may not see all there is to tell. As yourself, can this be? Open your eyes and you will see.

Jerry

Being Grateful or Just Giving Thanks

To me that's just like counting your blessings. There are so very many things in life to be grateful for. I give thanks each and every day. When I wake up from a long sleep, I give thanks. Just to know that I'm in good health, and I'm in my right mind, I give thanks.

God is good to me and my family, and that's another reason to give thanks. If I wish to sit and write about what Thanksgiving means to me, I'll be writing for a very long time. The word thanks will always make room for more, and we all know that it's more blessed to give than to receive.

Iolantha

